

Monolithic Isolating Joints are used to provide electrical sectioning and passive protection against corrosion on inlet and outlet pipes of meters, tanks, pumping station, etc. Monolithic Isolating Joints do not require any kind of maintenance, and they improve the cathodic protection of gas, water and petroleum pipelines with important savings in operation and maintenance cost.

Monolithic (one piece) Insulation/Isolation Joints

